First Foundation opens local office

First Foundation, a financial institution with headquarters in Irvine, opened a Pasadena office this week, with a banking and wealth- management team, marking its first foray into the greater Los Angeles market.

Clients now have access to all of First Foundation's services, which includes integrated investment management, wealth planning, consulting, trust and banking services, from the office at 301 N. Lake Ave.

"We are pleased that this location will be of great benefit to our clients already in the area, and are looking forward to growing in Los Angeles," said Chief Executive Officer Scott Kavanaugh. "The key people assigned to the office represent a superb group, already present and well respected in the area, and will carry on with our reputation for giving unsurpassed service."

First Foundation will occupy two adjoining suites and employ 10 people. First Foundation Bank is in Suite 115, and First Foundation Advisors is in Suite 100.
